

King Township Man Drowned In Canal

George Murray Gillam, 29, of R.R. 3 King, was drowned in the canal, Holland Marsh, in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Werner Ploder, son of Mr. A. Ploder, Holland Marsh, was returning home around 1:50 a.m. when at the bridge, located at the far end of Ansnorveld, he saw the lights of a car in the water, and hurried to his home from where he called the King township police.

Bradford firemen were called, responding to the call at about 2 a.m. and they took the young man's body from the water, and a few hours later hauled the car out.

The car had gone through the guard rail of the bridge, where the water is about seven feet deep. Mr. Gillam was alone in his car.
