

Baa, baa, bidding!

Item 58 may have been bidding on himself.

One of the more interesting items up for grabs at the Trinity Anglican Church Auction, a pet lamb, made more noise than a table full of bidders on Friday night.

The yearly auction, held to raise money for the planned addition to the church, featured 155 items ranging from peanut butter cookies to a hot-air balloon ride. A smart bidder could have walked away from the evening never having to mow a lawn or make dinner ever again.

Local auctioneer Allen Horner kept the crowd's attention with his unique mix of humor and quick-paced auctioneese. Horner donates his time each year to help the church raise funds.

Plans for the addition include an elevator, a handicapped washroom and parking spaces, outdoor ramps and a parson's study.

Bidders take a closer look at Item #58, at Trinity Anglican Church Auction, held at Arena on May 14th.