

4-H CLUB YEAR END

Cookstown Public School was quite active last Saturday afternoon as over 100 women and girls attended the 4-H activity day, put on by 4-H girls from Bradford, Ivy, Benton, Everett, Bond Head, Tottenham, and Hill and Valley groups.

The girls put on charades about etiquette, discussed judging and arranging of flowers, and gave plans for arranging a birthday party, and voted on next year's projects which will have a definite focus on living involving spring colour reviews.

In the afternoon the girls record books were on display for the mothers to enjoy, and they also showed their decorated boxes which were made to hold reference files. Plays and exhibits were offered in both serious and funny presentations in order to draw attention to the fun that can be enjoyed while serious learning is taking place.

Most of the theme centred around manners, etiquette and table setting. Comments were made to the girls by visiting home economists to assist them in future clubwork, and the Bradford leaders Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Klop were quite proud of the achievements of their girls.

Project awards were given to Donnette Lloyd, Nancy Jean Chabine, Lynda Elgerland, and Cathy Lewis. Achievement awards were given to Judy McArthur, Lynda McVety, Susan Robertson, and Ellen Mastin, and Linda McArthur. Now the girls can go on and work toward receiving County and Provincial awards in the years to come.
